Letter from the Baronage

reetings Unto the Populace,
January has come and gone, and we head into February with our hearts set for event going. We know that several of our populace will be teaching classes at our neighbor's College of 3 Ravens, and hope that some of our people will attend classes there and come back and share their new knowledge.

Our own Deadly Carnival is next up, showcasing what is sure to be some of the finest fencing to occur this year. I've heard that the tournaments will quite enjoyable.

There is scheduled to be another schola in Sterlynge Vayle later this month, featuring a variety of subjects.

If at that point you haven't gotten enough martial activities in, our neighbors to the East will be having their Winter War in Potsdam.

This sounds like a promising way to start off the event going season, and we are excited to be a part of it.

It looks like winter has finally decided to take up residence, and we would like to remind all of our good friends to please drive carefully as they head out to these many wonderful events.

In Service to the Dream
Edward and Anastasie

Letter from the Chronicler

Greetings Delftwood!

I'd still like to start a regular feature in the Full Tilt all about period recipes, but I don't cook. So send me your sources, your recipes and your redactions!

If you are teaching a class at any of this month's scholas, please consider sending your handout for publication in the Full Tilt, for those who are unable to make it to your class.

This month's Out of the Box section is from the Delftwood Wailer, February AS XXIII (1989). Included is a letter from the Seven Deadly Autocrat of 23 years ago - I think you'll find some similarities!

Thank you to everyone who has sent in articles and photos. Keep them coming!

In Service,
Desiderata Drake

Delftwood Yule

Court Report

Being the Report of the Court of Their Excellencies, Edward Harbinger and Anastasie de Lamoure, Ninth Baron and Baroness of Delftwood, held at Baronial Yule in Their Barony of Delftwood on the 3rd day of December A.S. 46. Officiated jointly by Mistress Aheydis von Körckhingen and Marcellus Titus Cincinnatus. Mistress Aheydis von Körckhingen reporting herald.

Their Excellencies invited before them the assembled youth in attendance. As is customary, Their Excellencies queried as to their enjoyment of the festivities, to which the youths replied with vigor. Having gained affirmation of the day's success from Their youngest subjects, Their Excellencies gifted to them small cakes of the season from the Baronial larder.

Their Excellencies invited before them all for whom this was their first visit to the Known World. All were welcomed by Their Excellencies and invited to return and, if it please them, to find a home in these peaceful and prosperous lands.

Their Excellencies called forward the event's head cook, Meisterin Felicitas Flußmüllnerin, and her staff. Their Excellencies congratulated them on a fine day's feasting and thanked them for the labors.

Their Excellencies likewise thanked the event steward, Lady Fáilenn ingen Chernaich, and commended her efforts in creating a convivial and festive event.

Their Excellencies requested the presence of Their Bardic Champion, Lady Éadaoin ingen Chanacáin. Lady Éadaoin spoke glowingly of the many fine performances given during the competition and announced the overall tournament winner as Lady Helene al-Zarqa'. The tournament scroll is a work in progress with illumination by Lord Fridrich Flußmüllner and calligraphy by Meisterin Felicitas Flußmüllnerin.

Their Excellencies thanked Lady Éadaoin for her service. Her time of service at an end, she was divested of the regalia of the office and invited to take her place among the populace that had been so delightfully entertained by her song.

Their Excellencies called forth Reinaldr bjór-tappr and spoke with delight of Reinaldr's fine singing. Having found him equally full of talent, song and goody manner, Their Excellencies proclaimed him Their new Baronial bardic champion. However, before investing him of the regalia of the office, Reinaldr was called upon to complete the word smithing of his own championship scroll. With the advisement of the grammarians among the populace, Reinaldr was tasked to give in turn examples of nouns, adjectives, diverse articles and all manner of verb conjugations. Such diction was then joined to the prose of His Excellency Oeric Thegn upon a scrolled painted and scribed by His Excellency, whereupon Reinaldr, newly invested of the regalia of Baronial Bard took his place upon the dais.

Their Excellencies called forth Lord Jan ten Walde, Their Champion of Arts and Sciences. Their Excellencies praised the artistry of the entrants and announced the overall winner of the competition as Lord Justin Lymner, by merit of his hand weaving. The tournament scroll is the work of Lord Corwin Alexander Templeton.

Their Excellencies thanked Lord Jan for his service to the barony. His tenure completed, Lord Jan was divested of the regalia of his office and invited to take his place among the assembly.

Their Excellencies called forward Her Excellency Baroness Clarice Roan. Having found her scribal entry both pleasing and well-crafted, Their Excellencies declared her to be Their new champion of Arts and Sciences. In continuation of tradition, it was discovered that the scroll was the work of the recipient herself, Baroness Clarice, who, most fittingly, should be intimately familiar of its value by knowledge of the toil and labor by which it was made.

Reinaldr bjór-tappr was again called before Their Excellencies. Having notices his many services to the barony and to the household of House Hamilton, having been delighted by his singing and having been impressed by his manner, Their Excellencies created him a companion of the Order of the Windmill. Scroll painted and scribed by Lady Helene al-Zarqa', based upon the Lindisfarne Gospels.

Aleidis Lanen was invited to attend Their Excellencies, who, having noted her many labors in service to the barony and to House Hamilton and having benefited by her stewardship and by her cooking, made her a companion of the Order of the Windmill. Scroll painted and scribed by Meisterin Felicitas Flußmüllnerin, based upon a woodcut of the Belagerung von Munster c. 1535.

On the invitation of Windmill Pursuivant, Their Excellencies led the assembly in cheering the heraldic service of Marcellus Titus Cincinnatus, the barony's newest and youngest herald, whose wont of years was amply compensated for by his wealth of voice and poise.

There being no further business before Their Excellencies, court was closed.

Out of the Box

Don't worry, Delftwood history is still safely in a box, but some of it will be re-printed here each month as well. This month's Out of the Box is reprinted from the Delftwood Wailer, February AS XXIII (1989).

This issue brought to you courtesy of
HONEST YNGVAR'S VIKING WARSHIP SALES across the street from
ALBERIC'S ARMORY AND DIE-CAST COINAGE, INC.

Unto the populace of the great and noble Barony of Delftwood does Yngvar the Dismal send Greetings!

On the 25th of this month we are having our annual Feast of the Seven Deadly Sins. For those of you who do not know yet, I am the autocrat, and I felt it was time I brought you up to date on what is going on.

This event is a Royal Progress (that means the King and Queen will be there!) and there will be Court. They will invest Cyneric and Sibyl as Baron and Baroness (Vivat!) We will have a shinai tourney, possibly the first in the Kingdom, with rules we have developed. There will be a fencing tourney for which we expect a significant turn-out. We will have the Hunt for the Jewelled Plague Rat and the Cavalcade of Sins. In addition, Queen Katherine has asked us to hold the East Kingdom Bardic Competition. When I said I would autocrat, I had no idea how quickly it would grow. I am sure it will be a good day and fun for all.

However, much needs to be done. We need much help in the kitchen, and servers are welcome. Also, get your reservation and money to Cyneric AS SOON AS POSSIBLE to help defray costs. If you have any questions, feel free to call me (474-3586). I hope to see you all on the 25th.

In service,
Yngvar the Dismal
